Travel fair gives information, prizes

To inform the UCLA community about the various travel options available, the ASUCLA Travel Service & Expo Center will hold the annual Travel Fair Tuesday.

According to Nancy Kivlen, manager of the ASUCLA Travel Service, the fair will present information on types of tours, charter flights, destinations and airfares.

Representatives from travel offices, including airlines, railroad companies and the UCLA study abroad program, will be present, Kivlen said.

"It is a learning experience for anyone who is considering taking a trip, whether it be to the Orient, the South Pacific, Mexico or New York," she said.

In addition to travel information, Kivlen said, prizes will be given out, and participants must be present to win.

"Prizes range from T-shirts and travel bags to airline tickets, both domestically and internationally," she said. "The grand prize this year is two tickets to Paris donated by American Airlines."

Describing the event as "fun and festive," Kivlen said it will also benefit those who are even "half-way thinking of traveling."

The fair will be held in Ackerman Grand Ballroom from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

GALA hopes to educate during Awareness Week

By Valarie De La Garza

The fourteenth annual UCLA Gay and Lesbian Awareness Week will kick off Monday Feb. 23.

The week's events, sponsored by UCLA's Gay and Lesbian Association (GALA), propose to help educate the UCLA community on gay and lesbian issues.

"I hope the week's events will ease some of the 'homophobia' on campus," said GALA co-chairman Doug Walters, citing recent attacks on gay members of UCLA's athletic teams by non-gay members and harassment in the residence halls. Walters would not comment further, but added that GALA received phone calls alleging these attacks.

Attorney Gloria Allred, recipient of GALA's Outstanding Achievement Award is scheduled to speak Monday at 4 p.m. in Young 2224. Allred is known for her accomplishments in court cases battling discrimination.

Also scheduled for Monday is an independent film that was released last year called "Parting Glances." The movie, which will be shown in Young 2250 at both 7 p.m. and 9 p.m., deals with the dilemmas of a gay male couple.

A panel of professors, students and athletes will hold a discussion entitled "What is it like to be Gay or Lesbian at UCLA" on Tuesday at 3-5 p.m. in Ackerman 2408.

Comedienne Marga Gomez and singers Romanovsky and Phillips are scheduled for Tuesday at 8-11 p.m. in the Cooperage.

People are encouraged to show support for Gays and Lesbians by wearing blue jeans on Wednesday, "Blue Jean Day." According to Walters, wearing blue jeans in support has been a tradition for GALA.

Also scheduled for Wednesday is a panel discussion entitled "Making a Difference in Law and Politics." The panel will include Laguna Beach Councilman Robert Gentry, former Academic Dean of University of Irvine, attorney Susan McGrievy, as well as two UCLA alumni, Honorable judges Rand Shrader and Stephen Lachs. The discussion will be held in Ackerman 3564 from 7-8:30 p.m. "Bachelors Anonymous" will be held promptly after the panel discussion until 10:30 p.m. in Kerckhoff Coffee House.

A panel discussion titled "Everything You Wanted to Know About Being a Lesbian But Were Afraid to Ask" will be held Thursday at 2-3:30 p.m. in the Lu Valle Commons Courtroom. The discussion is being sponsored by the Southern California Women for Understanding, a Los Angeles-

"Health and Happiness" is the theme for Thursday night's activities. Safe sex videos (one gay video and one heterosexual video) will be shown in Math/Science 3915B at 6:30 p.m. The films will be moderated by the former Dean of the School of Public Health Roger Detles. In addition, UCLA alumnus Louie Nassaney will speak on the remarkable story of his Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) remission.

Winding up the week on Friday will be a dance being held at Sunset Canyon Recreational Center, Vista Room, from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

GALA also holds four weekly rap sessions. For more details, contact the GALA office at 825-8053.

UC: Will all qualified students be admitted to some campus?

overall UC applications by a wide margin, this also indicates the possibility that sometime in the future UC Riverside will join its sister UC campuses in having to turn down students who technically meet the UC's minimum requirements.

For instance, it was reported in the Bruin earlier this academic year that a 4.0 GPA no longer guarantees admission into UCLA.

UCSD to take roughly 8,000

Similarly, at UC San Diego,

out of approximately 18,000 applicants, about 8,000 will be offered admission, Assistant Admissions Officer Gwyneth Cooper said. "Obviously, minimum eligibility is not going to go for San Diego this year, nor did it last year."

With other UC campuses experiencing similar situations, now including UC Santa Cruz, the UC system's policy of accepting all qualified students now hinges with Riverside.

"Riverside is still willing to take any student who is UC eligible," said Rae Lee Siporin, UCLA's director of undergraduate admissions. She added that as long as this was the case, the overall UC policy of admissions could continue.

But Zucker's comments cast doubt on how long this will be true. And it's possible that the UC system as a whole, besides just having impacted campuses (for instance UCLA and UC Berkeley are routinely impacted), will be an "impacted university," said Bill Villa, director of admissions at UC Santa Barbara.

This situation results at least partly from dramatic and unexpected increases in applications to the University of California. These occurred despite reports of declining faith in higher education and despite declining numbers of high school students in recent years.

"For years people have been predicting that enrollment in the University (of California) would decline," said UC Davis's assistant director of undergraduate admissions, Bob Ferrando. "Those predictions have been incorrect."

Quality to cost

Explanations for the UC's increased popularity, by campus representatives, range from perplexity to a description of the University of California's quality of education, coupled with its relatively lower costs.

"More people are coming, because we are still one of the best bargains in the university," Siporin said.

Another frequent explanation is that the rise in applications at individual campuses results from the new multiple-filing system, which allows for UC applicants to apply at as many campuses as they wish. Previously, high school students were allowed only one application, with the possibility of being redirected should they not be admitted to the campus of their choice.
